DATA NOTEBOOK 2024

FOR CALIFORNIA

BEHAVIORAL HEALTH BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS

Prepared by California Behavioral Health Planning Council, in collaboration with:
California Association of Local Behavioral Health Boards/Commissions

The California Behavioral Health Planning Council (Council) is under federal and state mandate to advocate on behalf of adults with severe mental illness and children with severe emotional disturbance and their families. The Council is also statutorily required to advise the Legislature on behavioral health issues, policies, and priorities in California. The Council advocates for an accountable system of seamless, responsive services that are strength-based, consumer and family member driven, recovery oriented, culturally, and linguistically responsive and cost effective. Council recommendations promote cross-system collaboration to address the issues of access and effective treatment for the recovery, resilience, and wellness of Californians living with severe mental illness and/or substance use disorders.

CBHPC 2024 Data Notebook: Introduction

What is the Data Notebook? Purpose and Goals

The Data Notebook is a structured format to review information and report on aspects of each county's behavioral health services. A different part of the public behavioral health system is addressed each year, because the overall system is large and complex. This system includes both mental health and substance use treatment services designed for individuals across the lifespan.

Local behavioral health boards/commissions are required to review performance outcomes data for their county and to report their findings to the California Behavioral Health Planning Council (Planning Council). To provide structure for the report and to make the reporting easier, each year a Data Notebook is created for local behavioral health boards to complete and submit to the Planning Council. Discussion questions seek input from local boards and their departments. Planning Council staff analyze these responses to create annual reports to inform policy makers and the public.

The Data Notebook structure and questions are designed to meet important goals:

- To help local boards meet their legal mandates¹ to review and comment on their county's performance outcome data, and to communicate their findings to the Planning Council;
- To serve as an educational resource on behavioral health data;
- To obtain opinion and thoughts of local board members on specific topics;
- To identify successes, unmet needs and make recommendations.

In 2019, we developed a section of the survey ("Part I") with standard questions that helped us detect any trends in critical areas affecting our most vulnerable populations. These included foster youth, individuals experiencing homelessness, and those with serious mental illness (SMI) who need housing in adult residential facilities (ARFs) and some other settings. These questions assisted in the identification of unmet needs or gaps in services that may occur due to changes in population, resources, or public policy. The Part I questions were used from 2019-2023. In addition to these standardized questions, each Data Notebook focused on a different topic of interest. Survey questions for these topics have been referred to as "Part II."

What's New This Year?

For the 2024 Data Notebook, the Planning Council will no longer include the standardized Part I questions in the survey. This change will give us the opportunity to develop a new set of important and timely performance outcomes measures that can be tracked over time. We also aim to shorten the overall length of the survey to make it more accessible for participating counties. A complete analysis of the data collected over that five-year period is forthcoming, but some of the data regarding housing and homelessness are discussed later in this document.

The topic selected for the 2024 Data Notebook is “homelessness within the public behavioral health system.” The Planning Council recognizes that this complex issue is the subject of much discussion, advocacy, and policy across the state. Our goal is to gather information about how counties address the issue of homelessness and housing among people served in their behavioral health systems and identify what data counties collect on this topic. There are also several questions at the end of the survey asking for your input on what topics or performance outcomes you would like us to focus on next year.

How the Data Notebook Project Helps You

Understanding data empowers individuals and groups in their advocacy. The Planning Council encourages all members of local behavioral health (BH) boards/commissions to participate in developing the responses for the Data Notebook. This is an opportunity for local boards and their county behavioral health departments to work together to identify critical issues in their community. This work informs county and state leadership about local behavioral health programs, needs, and services. Some local boards use their Data Notebook in their annual report to the County Board of Supervisors.

In addition, the Planning Council will provide our annual ‘Overview Report,’ which is a compilation of information from all of the local behavioral health boards/commissions who completed their Data Notebooks. These reports feature prominently on the website² of the California Association of Local Mental Health Boards and Commissions (CALBHBC). The Planning Council uses this information in their advocacy to the legislature, and to provide input to the state mental health block grant application to SAMHSA³.

What are Performance Outcomes?

While local behavioral health boards and commissions are required to review performance outcomes data for their counties, there is some ambiguity about what constitutes a “performance outcome measure.” Outcome measures are one of several kinds of measures used to evaluate the quality of health care organizations and services. According to the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, a common classification of quality measures⁴ includes:

- Structural Measures provide data on the capacity, systems, and infrastructure of a health care provider to gauge their ability to provide care. Examples of structural measures would be the ratio of providers to patients, or whether the organization uses electronic medical records.
- Process Measures indicate that a provider is using evidence-based best practices and processes to achieve a positive impact on people’s health or reduce harmful outcomes. Examples of process measures are the number of patients who receive recommended health screenings, appointment wait times, or frequency of follow-up appointments.
- Outcome Measures evaluate the impact a service or intervention has on an individual’s health status and recovery, whether positive or negative. Examples of outcome measures include evaluations of symptom severity, rates of hospital readmissions, and quality of life.

Of these three kinds of quality measures, outcome measures are arguably the most valuable for assessing the effectiveness of a health care service or intervention. However, they are also the hardest to evaluate. A big challenge with outcome measures is that there are many factors that influence health outcomes besides the treatment or services that an individual receives. It is beneficial to evaluate outcome measures in the context of structural and process measures, as they are closely related. Improving processes and system capacity within a health care organization can result in improved outcomes.

Patient-reported outcomes are important for assessing the quality of care that patients receive. These are outcome measures of an individual’s health, quality of life, and their experiences regarding the care they receive, using information gathered directly from the patient and/or their caregivers. Examples include patient reports of how well they feel their provider listens to them during appointments, or how effective they feel their treatment has been over the past 6 months.

A performance indicator is a specific measure, whether quantitative or qualitative, that is used to determine if a service or program is achieving their desired outcomes. During the evaluation process, the organization reviews their indicators to assess the effectiveness of their processes, policies, and services. It is important to also review the indicators themselves at regular intervals to determine if those indicators are working as intended, or whether the indicators need to be modified to better serve the evaluation plan. Note that it may be difficult to draw sound conclusions from qualitative indicators.

In behavioral health care, there are many potential outcome indicators that can be used to evaluate the impact of programs and services. The California Association of Local Behavioral Health Boards and Commissions published an issue brief⁵ on the topic of performance outcome data that includes suggested data points for county behavioral health agencies. The Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality also has publicly available resources on how to choose health care quality measures.⁶ We recommend that local behavioral health boards and commissions and behavioral health agencies familiarize themselves with these resources when considering what data to collect or use.

CBHPC 2024 Data Notebook: Homelessness in the Public Behavioral Health System

Homelessness is a multifaceted and longstanding phenomenon in United States, and California in particular. The state of California is home to the largest number of individuals experiencing homelessness in the nation. Our state makes up about 12% of the total population of the United States, yet accounts for 31% of the nation's homeless population and 49% of the unsheltered population as of 2023. The combination of low income and a lack of affordable housing continues to be the largest contributing factors for homelessness. However, there are many other factors that play a role in this issue including incarceration, racial disparities, physical and mental health, and domestic violence.

The intersection of homelessness and behavioral health is a complex topic, and has been the subject of increasing public discussion, political debate, and legislation. Rates of homelessness have continued to increase at alarming rates, exacerbated by the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. As public concerns about homelessness have grown, so have statewide efforts to reform behavioral health services in California. While the Planning Council does not share or endorse the view that mental illness is the primary cause of homelessness, the public behavioral health system does play a vital role in serving individuals experiencing homelessness.

The California Behavioral Health Planning Council has a long history of advocacy regarding housing and homelessness within the public mental health system. In 2016, the Planning Council published a report⁷ highlighting programs and policies that looked promising for ending homelessness for those with severe mental illness and substance use disorders. This report was the result of multiple panel presentations in 2015 involving people with lived experience, providers, advocates, and other stakeholders. More recently, our Housing and Homelessness Committee published an issue brief⁸ in 2020 highlighting services available to prepare persons experiencing homelessness for successful transitions to housing.

For the past 5 years, the Data Notebook survey has included an item asking counties to report on new or expanded services for homeless behavioral health clients. We have also included data from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Point-In-Time counts for California. By making this topic the primary focus of the 2024 Data Notebook, we aim to learn more about how individuals experiencing homelessness are served within the public behavioral health system. The survey questions for this year have been written to identify the types of data being collected at the county level, as well as some basic information on county-level programs, needs, and goals regarding homelessness.

Defining Homelessness

The federal government finalized an official definition of homelessness in 2011⁹ for the Homeless Emergency Assistance and Rapid Transition to Housing (HEARTH) Act. This definition states that a person or family is homeless if they fall into one of four categories:

- Currently homeless (lacking a fixed, regular, nighttime residence, which includes living in a car or temporary shelter program).
- Imminent risk of homelessness (those who will lose their nighttime residence within 14 days).
- Homeless under other federal statutes or programs. This includes those who have not had a permanent residence in the last 60 days.
- Fleeing or attempting to flee domestic violence, dating violence, or other threatening situations.

Additionally, the definition of “chronic homelessness” was clarified in 2015¹⁰. This definition covers individuals or families who have been homeless for at least 12 months, or on at least 4 separate occasions in the last 3 years, as long as the combined occasions equal at least 12 months.

Because these definitions are the ones used by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, they are the ones that we will be using for the purposes of the 2024 Data Notebook. However, we understand that many organizations and programs have different working definitions for these terms and are interested to learn how your county behavioral health agency defines homelessness in practice.

A Recent History: Housing and Homelessness Data presented in 5 years of California Data Notebook Overview Reports, 2019-2023.

Every year, the states, counties, and many cities perform a “Point-in-Time” Count¹¹ of the individuals experiencing homelessness in their counties, usually on a specific date

We have presented California data from the federal HUD Point-in-Time Count in each data notebook to inform the local behavioral health boards and for a basis for their discussion and responses.

The data from the past 5 years, displayed below in Figure 1, show increasing trends during this time span for nearly all the groups selected, including total homeless persons, those unsheltered, the chronically homeless, those served by emergency shelters, those persons with severe mental illness, and those who experienced chronic substance abuse. The groups which did not show any major increases during this time span include those served in transitional housing at the selected point-in-time counts, and the numbers for unaccompanied youth aged 18-24, and for unaccompanied children under 18. We do not know the reason why numbers for those specific groups did not exhibit significant changes over this 5-year time span. Note the data gaps for January 2021, when COVID-19 health protocols precluded counting unsheltered individuals, and therefore impacted any data which normally would include those numbers in aggregated totals. Table 2 contains the numerical data used to construct Figure 1.

In addition to the HUD Point-In-Time data, previous Data Notebooks included the following survey question:

“During the most recent fiscal year, what new programs were implemented, or what existing programs were expanded, in your county to serve persons who are both homeless and have severe mental illness?”

Figure 2 shows a summary of the responses to this question from the past 5 years. The Data group labeled ‘N’ shows the number of counties which submitted responses to this question in that year’s Data Notebook. The category of ‘Other’ includes some programs which were developed with special funding (such as Project Home Key, etc.) in response to the pandemic and the economic dislocation experienced by many individuals.
